

EDITORIAL

The year 1973 has been very trying as we have to face many hardships like power cut, non-availability of printing materials and rising costs of almost everything in bringing out the Journal. Consequently there has been delay in releasing the Journal in time, the quality of reproduction of photos has been unsatisfactory and we have to exercise every care to economise the production of the Journal. We are grateful to both the contributors and the readers for putting up with all the set-backs of the Journal.

We trust that we will have your continued understanding and support during the coming year if things do not improve with regard to printing materials and costs. We wish you all a Happy and Prosperous New Year.
