From the Editor's Desk

We launch upon two new features for the Journal in the year 1977. The first is an Editorial column which we hope to have as a regular feature*. The second is a "Self-Assessment Programme". The Editorial Column will be contributed by one of the members of the Editorial Board, whereas the Self-Assessment Programme for this year would be prepared by Dr. L. K. Bhutani, Professor of Dermatology, All India Institute of Medical Sciences, New Delhi.

We trust that you will enjoy reading these new features and also the Journal as a whole.

On the back-side cover you will also note that the articles are classified under various headings. We hope that this also will be a welcome change this year.

Please remember to renew your membership and subscription to the Journal as early as possible if you have not already done so.

We wish you a very happy and prosperous New Year.

* Due to unseen circumstances we are unable to have the 'Editorial' in this first issue.
