

Table S5:

Relevance of patch and photopatch test results:

Definite	If the Patch or use test with the suspected material is positive and re-exposure to the material containing the sensitising substance causes recurrence of contact dermatitis.
Probable	If the antigen is present in known skin contactants and the clinical presentation is consistent with that exposure.
Possible	If skin contact with materials known to contain the allergen was likely
Past	If the patch test is positive but the exposure was in the past, and not the present
